FIRSTREQUEST

FirstLab's web-based screening service – FirstRequest it offers a quick and easy way to order, track and review drug and alcohol tests for applicants and candidates requiring pre-employment testing. – up to 4 times faster than manual pre-employment testing arrangements..

Logging into the FirstRequest system, the employer directly submits requests for a prospective employee to be tested anywhere in the continental United States. FirstRequest processes the request, selects the closest testing location and automatically submits the request to FirstLab for scheduling. As a third party administrator, FirstLab then schedules the test, ships the instruction/supply package to the donor or collection facility, and tracks the status of the test on the system. Employers can log onto the system at any time to check the status of pending and scheduled tests, as well as to review completed test results.

FirstRequest greatly simplifies an important part of applicant hiring – now tests are scheduled on-line through a secure, centralized system that automatically sends applicants to their nearest testing facility, then tracks and delivers updates and results directly to the employer.

FirstRequest can also link to a site where background investigations and employment verifications can be requested – providing a single source for the recruiter's on-boarding process.
